EDUCATION
Impacts on Education due to Covid-19

Michelle Love-Day, Educational Consultant
Closure Prep for Utah Educators

- Friday, March 13th, at 4 p.m. the State was notified of the Emergency Soft School Closure.
- Schools had two days to communicate with families and students for packet, Chromebook, or lesson pick-up
- April 14th- news of extended dismissal through the end of the year.
- How were schools and districts prepared?
Grades

“The authority to award grades and determine grade point averages rests with local school districts and charters. USBE recognizes that grade calculations and GPA are a local policy issue. USBE does recommend that districts and charters establish a methodology to fairly calculate grades based on work previously completed and a methodology for GPA calculations, including considering pass/incomplete grade. LEAs have latitude in determining what grades to award, if any, for coursework and what coursework is required for credit.

For LEAs considering the use of pass (P)/incomplete (I) grades, there are some points of consideration to keep in mind.”

Let the light shine

- The closure has illuminated the inequities and other shortcomings on school closures.
- (April 1-Personal email was sent regarding the Equity among our Low-income, Newcomer and EL families. )??
- Free meals began, free wi-fi made available, but the website is in English and Spanish. Not including our many African Languages
Educational Inequity

“the unequal distribution of academic resources, including but not limited to; school funding, qualified and experienced teachers, books, and technologies to socially excluded communities. These communities tend to be historically disadvantaged and oppressed.”
Myths in Educational Inequity

1. Educational resources are distributed across schools equally
2. Low-Income Children and Children of Color Are Receiving Enough Educational Resources to Succeed Academically
3. Educational Inequity Is an Issue That Doesn’t Have Widespread Impact
4. All Students Should Receive the Same Educational Resources
5. Solving Educational Inequity Will by Itself Fix Other Societal Disparities
6. We’ll Never Achieve True Educational Equity
Some rest

- While students are at home, there has been a bit of a mental break our black students feel in their predominant spaces.
- The current structural system has been a burden for our students and families.
- The systemic racism in education needs to be addressed.
- Temporary placement for virtual learning was put in place but there needs to be long term solutions.
Safe School Environment- Our students feel like they have to be ready to defend themselves

YouthTruth Survey
“...... if they are not fearing for their lives and safety, girls required to shelter in place face other unique challenges when compared to their brothers and male peers. For example, they are significantly more likely than boys to be forced into additional caregiving and housekeeping responsibilities, instead of studying or taking care of themselves.”

What Districts are doing

- Free meals
- Free Wifi hotspots
- Use of Interpreters to call families and translate documents
- Partnerships with agencies to reach families
- Calling home and making home visits
- Meeting to decide the best way to virtually instruct and engage students
What parents and guardians can do

- Request to keep the Chromebook through June
- Make appointments for teachers to Zoom chat with your student on topics they need help with
- Link up with other families to schedule Zoom chats or calls with your child
- Check with local community centers if they are doing virtual events throughout the summer
- Find the Black Student Union at your school or the connecting High School to assist in starting an organization
- Vote in your upcoming elections. There have been more budget cuts to Utah education
Community Challenge

Local Black Organizations and Churches to “adopt a student”, not just during Covid, but long-term. Virtual check-ins, advocating with parents in the schools, tutoring students.

Example: Black Chamber of Commerce and National Association of Black Accountants

Push for an anti-bias/anti-racism curriculum

Sustaining Wellness in Black Communities during COVID-19

- What is the National Black Muslim COVID Coalition?
- Why are we vulnerable?
  - Anti-Black racism, racial trauma and violence, health disparities
- What is the emotional impact of the pandemic on Black/Black Muslim communities?
- What are some strategies for coping?
National Black Muslim COVID Coalition

Black Muslims in the United States

- Black Muslims comprise 20-25% of the overall Muslim population in the United States and reside in every region of the country.
- Utah:
  - Somali Bantu community of 5,000+ people
Why Are We Vulnerable?

White supremacy and systemic oppression leading to:

- food insecurity in rural and urban areas
- health disparities and inadequate access to quality healthcare due to racism and discrimination
- political disenfranchisement
- incarcerated citizens and detained individuals
- unemployment and underemployment
- invisibility and hypervisibility
Our aim is to utilize community organizing principles, deeply rooted faith and spirituality and cultural resilience and knowledge to:

- Disseminate accurate and timely information to bolster individual and collective health and well-being.
- Strengthen and support Black Muslim leadership
- Support optimal physical health, spiritual and emotional wellness
- Share best practices and resources to respond to community needs in all phases of the pandemic
NATIONAL BMCC PANDEMIC PHASE-BASED INTERVENTIONS

Pre-Pandemic Planning
- Promote community preparedness to mitigate risk factors; develop resilience; strengthen leadership

Early Pandemic Phase
- Disseminate accurate health information and precautions – dispel myths; Meet basic needs: adequate food, shelter, safety

Later Pandemic Phase
- Maintain community support to address stigma and discrimination; grief and loss, trauma, shortages, ramp up mutual aid

Post-Pandemic Recovery
- Strengthening the network for support through the crisis: monitor long term mental health impact (PTSD, Substance use, etc.)

Sustaining Community Health & Wellness
- Building upon the work: organizing and advocacy to expand coalition and build power; affirm community healing practices
“The expectation that we can be immersed in suffering and loss daily and not be touched by it is as unrealistic as expecting to be able to walk through water without getting wet.”

-Naomi Rachel Remen
Pandemic Phases

- Denial or disbelief
- Shock
- Hypervigilance
- Insecurity, sense of vulnerability

Middle Pandemic
- Acute distress
- Panic, Anxiety
- Fear of the unknown, infection/additional losses
- Fatigue (from exercising precautions)
- Hopelessness
- Intense worry about self and others

Late/Post-Pandemic
- Complicated grief (multiple losses)
- Fear of a new pandemic
- PTSD, Stress, Anxiety, Depression
- Burnout

Muslim Wellness Foundation
Emotional Impact of Pandemic

- Fear
- Worry
- Difficulty concentrating
- Difficulty sleeping
- Loss of appetite/emotional eating
- Sense of dread and despair
- Irritability, anger
Fear and uncertainty increase anxiety

Fear & Concerns related to:

- Financial instability - what if I lose my job/can’t support my family?
- Physical health - what if I become ill? What if I infect or expose my family members?
- Mental health - stress, social isolation, substance use
Emotional Impact of Oppression, Racism & Violence

- Racial battle fatigue
- Attributional ambiguity [from microaggressions]
- Race based traumatic stress
- White body supremacy [Resmaa Menakem]
The Emotional Weight

Adapted from CR/AW ICREF's Intersectionality Wheel

- Innermost Unique Circumstances
- Second Aspects of Identity
- Third Types of discrimination that impact identity
- Fourth Larger forces and structures reinforcing exclusion
Emotional Impact of Oppression, Racism & Violence

- I am overwhelmed by people dying. I have real anxiety about going into stores.
- Fearful, very paranoid.
- It is difficult not to be fearful of the reality of much worse this is affecting Black, Latino, and Asian communities, both by risk of infection and risk of racism. It's hard to hold on to hope.
- I feel the communal impact of the pandemic, particularly the impact on African Americans and other people of color. I am concerned that we are working to return to a life that continues to, not just disproportionately impacts people of color, but sacrifices people of color and consider us disposable.

CHANGE
Communication: Sounding the Alarm

Our communications must be early, often and in “all” directions & platforms. This pandemic has brought awareness to our the deficits in many of our organizations’ communication and outreach infrastructure.

Our messaging must be clear and concise. COVID-19 isn’t the cause of the prevailing racial disparities and inequities however, it has lifted the veil and magnified these existing gaps.

We must become more comfortable in engaging in often uncomfortable conversations about race, racism (internalized, interpersonal, institutional and structural), power and privilege and how they translate into public policy and systems of inequality.
Collaboration: The Village

We work together informally all the time.

We support each other’s events and programs.

We volunteer to support each other’s causes.

We’re not new to this and can’t accept the misguided narratives and things we often repeat about not being able to work together.

We built this country working together; we passed Civil Rights Laws, Voting Rights Laws, etc., on a national level.

Our local and state elected officials (including Rep. Hollins) have passed and help pass laws to support school resource officer training and accountability, Ban the Box, Juneteenth State Holiday, Juvenile Justice Reform, COVID-19 Emergency funding and more!
Moving the Needle for Structural Change

Awareness ➔ Agenda ➔ Action

Before moving to C-3, it’s important to have a Collective Agenda (as a living document that’s subject to modifications)

The Utah Black Roundtable developed a Utah Black Agenda “The People Speak” that came about through community input, over a four year period, at the State of Black Utah Town Hall Meetings that kick off the Annual Utah Juneteenth Festival. This Agenda can provide a wonderful starting point and framework for moving forward versus reinventing the wheel and starting from scratch.

Connection…
Our Networks & Constituencies

We’ve invested countless hours and years in supporting other organizations, agencies and programs. We’ve donated our expertise in telling others “how to do their jobs”; how to promote equity & inclusion; how to reach our communities; and how to bring about racial justice to reach equitable impacts, outcomes and more.

Now it’s time to go back and “call-in” some of those markers with specific asks for what we determine is needed to move our agenda forward. This could be issues of access, training, infrastructure development, financing and other resources.
“The race isn’t given to the swift or strong, but to those that endure to the end.”

We have a roadmap for consistency, persistence, resiliency and change that has been bore out of 400 years of struggle, achievement and commitment!

Our ancestors left a map…a game plan, now we have to pick up where they left off and use the information and tools of our time to carry the agenda forward.
